DEDICATION

MRS. ALICE M. FITZGERALD CONLON

This book is being dedicated in memory of Mrs. Alice M. (Fitzgerald) Conlon. Mrs. Conlon has been a member of the staff of the Lowell State cafeteria for eleven years. She was one of the nicest, warmest persons known at the college. Because of the many bonds of friendship, we knew her as Alice, . . . some students never knowing her last name.

Those who had the good fortune of knowing Alice still feel her presence at the cafeteria. She will always be remembered in many of our thoughts and conversations, for the kindness and help she gave so willingly.

For some, there is only a brushing of acquaintance, but to many students, as well as faculty, there are happy moments of reminiscence.

During the last two years Alice worked, many of us did not know that she was ill and being treated for terminal cancer. She did not want us to know, . . . and because of this courageous act, many returned to the campus in Sept. of '75, sorrowfully learning of her death.

Alice was born in Boston on February 15, 1906 and died on June 5, 1974. At the time of her death she lived in Lowell, on Walker St. She was a communicant of St. Patrick's Church and held membership in the Blessed Virgin Sodality; The American Legion Auxiliary Post 87; St. Francis Seminary Guild; The Poor Clare Guild; and the League of Catholic Women. She was married to the late William H. Conlon and is survived by a son John, several grandchildren and a brother.

As we leave Lowell State College for the last time and go our separate ways, Alice will remain in our hearts. She will travel in memory, throughout many walks of life and will never be forgotten by her many friends who loved her as she loved them.

(written by Florette Culbert on behalf of the class of 1975)

Mr. Frank F. Coburn was the first Principal of the Lowell Normal School. In his educational background he had been principal of the Old Franklin Grammer School, junction of Middlesex and Branch Streets. He became a science teacher and later the principal of the Lowell High School.

One of the former students of Lowell Normal School remembers Mr. Coburn in a wheel chair, in his office. Due to a fall on the ice, he had injured his spine and became paralyzed. When the girls passed his office he always had a smile and would wave to them. Sometimes the girls used to stop at the office to talk and visit with Mr. Coburn. Everyone who knew him loved and respected him, he was a friend to all.

The original building which was first named the Lowell Normal School is now called the Coburn Building in his memory.

COBURN, FACULTY AND THE CLASS OF 1900

Mr. Cyrus A. Durgin was promoted to the Principalship of the Normal School after the death of Mr. Coburn in 1907. Before the promotion he was the Principal of the Bartlett Training School. He lived on Wannalancit Street, near the school.

A retired teacher, who attended the Lowell Normal School remembered Mr. Durgin as a very nice person, he was more of the business type and very well dressed.

In 1912 the two year program at the Normal School was expanded including a small third year major in music education. Six women students entered the first class. This was the first music education program in any public normal school in America.

The Durgin Building, which is the new music building has been named in remembrance of Mr. Cyrus A. Durgin.

Dr. John J. Mahoney became Principal of the Lowell Normal School in 1916. At the time he was a Principal in the Cambridge Schools. Later he became a national leader in developing civics programs in the public schools of the nation. He also founded the national periodical "School and Society". In 1922, after resigning as Principal, he joined the faculty of Boston University. Besides being a professor at B.U. he joined the faculty of Tufts University.

The Humanities Building, the second building to be constructed on the campus in 1954 is now the Mahoney Building in memory of Dr. John J. Mahoney.

Dr. Clarence M. Weed succeeded Dr. Mahoney in 1922. He had served on the faculty of the University of New Hampshire and was nationally recognized as an authority in Nature Studies. In the field of lepidoptera his publications are still considered classics. Under his administration in 1932 the three year Normal School became a four year Teachers College.

The new Science-Nursing classroom building has been named after Dr. Weed.

In 1935 Mr. James Dugan, Assistant Superintendent of the Cambridge Schools became President of the State Teachers College of Lowell. During his administration the enrollments fell to 163 students. Through his struggles he was successful in keeping the college open.

He retired in 1950 at the age of 70. The Administration Building was named after Mr. Dugan.

The State Board of Education elected Dr. O'Leary President of the college in 1950. He had taught in the Boston public schools for 22 years. He served as Principal of the Roxbury Evening Schools, as instructor at Boston College and Hyannis State Teachers College, and as Professor and Head of the History Department at Boston Teachers College. There have been many changes since Dr. O'Leary became the President. The new Library has been named in his honor.

ADVOCATE HISTORY IN A THIMBLE

by Peter Carbone

The Advocate was founded six years ago when Dr. O'Leary was threatened with a lawsuit steming from articles printed in the then LSC paper — The Campus Star. Frank Baglione incorporated a new LSC newspaper to become separate from the college to avoid libel suits in the future. Judy White took the paper over for a short period of time. Paul Peterson was then elected Editor-In-Chief for more than a year. Under Peterson The Advocate became most vocal in constructive critisism and his writing style under the pseudoname of XYZ sparked much controversy on campus.

creased in size by about 50%.

From the fall of 1973 onward, I assumed all responsibilities of publishing the Advocate. Technically I have been a dictator; but a very democratic dictator. In the last two years, The Advocate has come out regularly every two weeks except for this past month when we published every week and has increased in size from an average of 8 pages of tabloid to an average of 16 pages of tabloid; while the circulation has jumped from 2000 in 1973 to 4000 in 1975.

The gym or field can be a more significant element in the sphere of education than the classroom or the library. One may spend all of his or her time in acedemics at Lowell University. If so He or she may be doing so foolishly. The well educated man is one who has learned a degree of discipline, the ability to with others on a team, the ability to lead, to win, to lose, and hopefully the ability not to quit.

"With this being my first and only year at Lowell State College I was truly saddened and disappointed by the lack of interest that existed not only with the student body but with top administrative leaders. No greater joy can one have than pride in his own school"

My soul is a collector.
What you are is a part of me.
What you say, what you want to say,
Matters.
There is a long, long time in front of me.
And I will walk into that time
To search and find,
Exactly why I live,
And where I'm going.

Man is like a tree
planted by streams of water,
that yields its fruit in its season,
and its leaf does not wither.
In all that he does, he prospers.
Book of Psalms

When two individuals meet, so do two private worlds.
None or our private worlds is big enough to live a wholesome life in.
We need the wider world of joy and wonder; of purpose and venture; of toil and tears.
What are any of us but strangers, wandering through the night until we draw together to find the meaning of our lives in one another, dissolving our fears in each other's courage and lighting torches to guide us through the dark?

Love is what we need. To love and to be loved.
Let our hearts be open and what we would receive from others, let us give.
For what is given, still remains to bless the giver when the gift is LOVE.

on education

If morality and knowledge are necessary to security of some justice and happiness to mankind then Lowell University and all schools as the means of education must always be below God our primary value.

on justice

Believe it or not laws are often unjust. During the excitment of emotional people in tense times either by the masses or as individuals, one must before hastily acting believe that there are always two sides to every story.

Gary Sullivan -- Editor

on life

Big Deal! So what if you have graduated from college. So what if you got 700 on your college boards, have a 3.5 cumulative average, or have been the champion in every game. Past accomplishments may not put bread on the table tomorrow as past failures may not take it off. This is all behind you now. You will not be able to tell yourself and everybody else that you were successful because of your past accomplishments . . . It all may not matter because the past, good or bad, is just that, the past, life goes on . . .
